Stay updated with the most significant world news headlines today, December 20, 2025. From escalating conflicts in Southeast Asia to major U.S. military actions and cultural milestones, here's a roundup of breaking international developments shaping the globe.

U.S. Launches Major Strikes on ISIS in Syria

President Donald Trump announced large-scale U.S. military operations against ISIS in Syria, dubbed "Operation Hawkeye Strike." The attacks target fighters, infrastructure, and weapons sites in response to a December 13 incident in Palmyra that killed American personnel.

This escalation marks a strong retaliatory move in the ongoing fight against the group.

Thailand-Cambodia Border Conflict Intensifies

Tensions boil over as the Royal Thai Air Force conducts airstrikes on Cambodia, killing civilians and wounding others. Clashes result in Thai soldier casualties, amid heightened security at the ongoing 2025 SEA Games in Bangkok.

The dispute threatens regional stability in Southeast Asia.

Taiwan Subway Stabbing Investigation Reveals Planned Attack

Taiwanese police confirm the deadly subway stabbing spree was premeditated. The attacker, whose motives remain unclear, led an increasingly isolated life with no known accomplices.

The incident shocks the nation and prompts reviews of public safety measures.

Epstein Files Released by U.S. Justice Department

Thousands of documents related to Jeffrey Epstein's case hit public view, including photos, call logs, and redacted pages. Connections to high-profile figures, including President Trump, fuel renewed scrutiny.

The release stirs debates on transparency and accountability.
